was to be a change in the National Administration, the INTELLIGENCER took the liberty of submitting to the Republicans of West Virginians some suggestions locking to a fair distribution of the good things and the preservation of that party harmony which had remained intact through the four years when there was nothing to distribute among Republi-

One of these suggestions was that the party, through its acknowledged leaders should confer with regard to the distribution of the offices, agree upon the places to be asked and the men for whom they should be asked, and with this comfortable understanding go be-fore the President. It was not supposed that a programme of this kind could be carried out to the letter in respect of every aspirant; but the INTELLI-GENCER was sure that every step in the proposed direction would be a party

The conference held in Washington last week by Republicans from West Virginia was in the line of this suggestion. The conferees, so far as they went, yielded something all around, and the result, though disappointing to some good men, will satisfy the party. The same mode of procedure could be carried farther with excellent effect. There are aspirants for offices not located within the State-foreign posts and posts at home. The very best course for the aspirants and for the party is to decide on what to ask for and for whom to ask it, and then to go in with united front. This plan would not pre vent disappointments, which are to be expected in all human affairs—especially in politics. It would, however, conduce to the party welfare.

Ellison Hatfield's Confession The confession of Ellison Hatfield, one of the leaders of the famous Hatfield-McCoy feud, which is published in this morning's INTELLIGENCER, is interesting. All the more so because it is the voluntary statement of a man whose hands are red with the blood of murdered people, and who knew that State's evidence would not save him from punhas been printed heretofore regarding the Hatfield raids in Kentucky. There his confession has only to do with the part that he has played in the great tragedy himself. All law abiding citizens of West Virginia will be glad when all hose connected with the crimes are brought to justice and the State is rid of like a tale of the Arabian Nights. Now the disgrace of having within its borders so unsavory a lot of citizens. We do not believe that the Hatfields have been wholly to blame for the state of affairs on the border. A confession from a member of the Kentucky faction might prove equally interesting.

In this confession, some light is thrown on the manner in which the West Virginia authorities were deceived gers are "Home again, home again, from a foreign shore." They escaped the typhoon, the Tycoon, the bull fight and false charges.

> AN OLD WEST VIRGINIA TRAPPER. Harrison McKinney's Personal Encounter With a Mad Buck.

About eleven miles east of Morgan town in the mountains on Decker's creek, near Masontown, Preston county West Virginia, lives in a neat fran old-fashioned house with his wife and two children, one of the oldest settlers in Prestor county-Harrison McKinney. This old gentleman is 75 years of age, a perfect type of health and happiness, having lived for 45 years on the farm he now resides. His farm consists of 500 acres, about 50 acres of which he has cleared, and is in a good state of culti tracted for, so far as reported, in eastern and western mills. Inquiries on the market during the past month foot up considerably over 100,000 tons, and the presumption is that with a very few days all of this business will be placed. Quotations $27,258 at eastern mills; western $30,30 50. Large contracts are being placed for structural iron for elevated work and general building work. Inquiries are in the market for from 19,000 to 15,000 tons in all. There is also an active inquiry for plate and tank iron, but the sales are light. Merchant bar is extremely dull. Sheet is dragging. Muck bars are selling at $25 50,27 00. Pennsylvania pig iron is still dull in all markets, owing to the unwillingness of consumers to do more than cover actual requirements. No. 1 foundry ranges from $17 50,418 00; No. 2, $16 56,17 00; forge $15 00,415 50. Southern brands can in some cases be purchased at as much as $1 less. In western markets only small sales of crude and finished iron have been made. A few inquiries are on the market forcar iron as well as for charcoal foundry. At several points crude iron production is being reduced to avoid foundry. The condition of the wool market remain unchanged. The demand from concessions there is little disposition to took up. The general tone of trada is concessions there is little disposition to stock up. The general tone of trade is rather weak.

The London sales opened Tuesday with a good attendance of home and foreign buyers. Competition in merinos and cross-breds is specially active. Prices show some advances as compared with January figures. Some expected supplies have failed to arrive, and the series will probably close before May 6.

At Boston the market is quiet. The unsatisfactory sale of heavy woolens has tended to greatly curtail the consumption of wool on the present goods trade. Fleece wools are weak. Michigan wool is in very light supply, and the stock of combings is also small. The new clip of southern Texas wool is beginning to come forward from the ranches, but there have been no arrivals in this market as yet. Current quotations for leading sorts are as follows, in comparison with last year and the year before: with last year and the year before:

At Philadelphia the mavement is sluggish, and the market as a whole is weat although there is less pressure to sell than is usually noted at this time of year, because present stocks are exceptionally small, and dealers no not expect to replace them from the new clip at lower prices.

Deafness Can't be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the nucus lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gots inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucus surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
